

ECA Certification FAQ's

What are the time commitments for the training?

The majority of the learning takes place on 13 bimonthly live calls. These are supplemented with flexible online learning and practice coaching sessions which can fit easily around your schedule.

When does the course finish?

The course takes approx five months to complete and after you have successfully passed five coaching overviews with your trainer. However, you are in the ECA Community for a whole year for coaching, business and personal support.

What qualification do I receive at the end of the course?

You become an ECA Accredited Coach and gain your ECA Diploma. Following on, you can gain your ICF ACC which is the gold standard in coaching and an internationally recognised qualification. We can help you do everything apart from take the exam.

How do past graduates use their new coaching qualification and skills?

This depends on what you want to take away from the training. Many people set up their own coaching business as a side hustle or become self-employed. Some use their training to support their wellbeing role in school. Others simply want to add to their growing list of qualifications and see coaching as an important step in the right direction.

Who is the course suitable for?

Primarily we focus on training teachers, educators and school staff on our courses. However, we have had people from different backgrounds from; paramedics, lawyers, rugby coaches, mindfulness practitioners and parents. The training is focused around supporting students but it can be used for adults too.
